Instruction

High School	College
Teachers may modify curriculum and/or alter curriculum pace of assignments	Professors are not required to modify instruction or curriculums.
You are expected to read short assignments that are then discussed and often re-taught in class	You are assigned substantial amounts of reading and writing that may not be directly addressed in class.
You seldom need to read anything more than once; sometimes listening in class is enough.	You need to review class notes, text, and material regularly.

Grades & Tests

High School	College
IEP or 504 Plan may include modifications to test format and/or grading.	Grading and test format changes (i.e. multiple choice vs. essay) are generally not available. Accommodations to HOW tests are given (extended time, distraction reduced environment) are available
Testing is frequent and covers small amounts of material.	Testing is usually infrequent and may be cumulative, covering large amounts of material.
Makeup tests are often available.	Makeup tests are seldom an option provided in a curriculum.
Teachers often take time to remind you of assignments and due dates.	Professors expect you to read, save, and consult the course syllabus; the syllabus spells out exactly what is expected of you, when it is due, and how you will be graded.
Students are often graded solely on the quality of work regardless of when it is completed and turned in.	Students are expected to meet course requirements, which usually includes turning work in on time. Late work usually incurs a grade penalty or is counted as a zero.
